

Does OCWTP equip learners with the knowledge and skills necessary to do their job well?

Here's what caseworkers and supervisors had to say . . .

OCWTP trainings teach me usable skills.

The trainings are current, evidence-based, and easily available.

The trainings I've attended have provided me with real life situations and allowed me to be a better worker.

Every OCWTP course that I've attended is valuable because it has positively affected my knowledge base and helped me practice more effectively.

Because of OCWTP training, I can utilize solution-focused questioning to conduct strength-based assessments.

As a result of training, I'm better able to engage hard-to-reach families and leverage community resources in various capacities.

OCWTP training has helped me better identify my clients' needs and implement interventions to meet those needs.

Training has definitely made me an asset for my agency!

The OCWTP provides me with the knowledge and skills I need to best protect and serve children.